

Using the Internet, encyclopedias, and other reference materials, research the endangered species of your choice. Remember to present factual information in a creative way.

Each trading card must have the following information:

- Name of endangered species- common and scientific name
- Where does the organism live?
- Interesting facts about the organism
- How many organisms are left in the world based on the information you can gather?
- What has caused the species to become endangered?
- What impact has the loss of this species had on the ecosystem?
- What can be done to help this species?

Each trading card should also include a photograph or drawing of the endangered organism.
